To Whom It May Concern,

Mr. Richau is doing an outstanding job in my third grade class working with my students on computers. Many of them had never used a computer before. He has lots of patience with the students. Mr. Richau made them study guides to explain the parts of the computers. The students can now turn the computer off and on, get into the internet, and do many other things on the computer. He has done a wonderful job. I hope that he can continue with them on the computer. The students have become very fond of him.

To Whom It May Concern:

The purpose of this letter is to highly recommend John Richau for an intern position in your office. I have known John for 5 months on a professional basis; I am his supervisor—the Executive Director of the Fresno Covenant Foundation (FCF). FCF is a 501 (c) (3) non-profit organization, operating quality neighborhood based programs to assist underserved children and families in achieving productive, self-reliant lives by helping them develop necessary life skills. Our main focus at the Fresno Covenant Foundation is to provide after school literacy tutoring for elementary students and their families and educational programs for students' parents geared toward improving student achievement.

John is currently an intern at FCF (via the Federal Work Study program) as a Literacy Tutor. John tutors elementary students in the subjects of reading, writing, and language arts skills; he also offers encouragement in other subject areas. John also assists students in our computer lab, helping students master computer-related skills, as well as educational software programs.

John always arrives to work on time and is always prepared. John exhibits responsibility, creativity, and compassion while he works with his students and their families. An example of this would be John's leading role in organizing our end of the year celebration for our students. John volunteered time, a part from his internship, and organized a salsa dance performance for the students. He even arranged for Santa Claus to make an appearance. This is just one of many examples of John's compassion and eagerness to serve his community.

John is a good team-player and is able to effectively communicate with children, co-workers, and senior staff. Students and parents feel comfortable speaking with him about important issues; he is able to relate to individuals of varying backgrounds. He is also a pleasant person and always has a smile on his face.

In addition to his internship work at FCF, John is also a full-time student at Fresno City College. He is studying two fields concurrently, thus receiving two Associates degrees—one in Speech Communication and the other in Computer Networking. John also volunteers at the Fresno County Library, helping adults improve their literacy skills; the Fresno County Bicycle Coalition, helping coordinate and organize the agency's website; and at Harrison Elementary School, as a computer literacy tutor.

As you can see, John is dedicated and determined to excel as a scholar and professional. He is highly capable, academically as well as practically—utilizing his academic knowledge to help his community.

During the time that I have known John, I have come to know and respect him. John is compassionate, creative, as well as highly professional. He respects diversity, as is evident in his positive interactions with students and parents of varying backgrounds and situations.

I wholeheartedly recommend John Richau. John would definitely be an excellent addition and asset to your office. If you have any questions, please feel free to call me at anytime (559-226-4672).

Respectfully,

Luis Santana, MSW

To Whom It May Concern:

I highly recommend John Richau for the position of political intern. John greatly impressed me when he was a student in my English 1A class. He was exemplary in every way. His thoughtful, sensitive, friendly demeanor, combined with an excellent sense of humor, made him a cheerful addition to our class. He was dependable and responsible, as well. He also contributed to class discussions with insightful and well-articulated comments and answers to questions. In peer review sessions, during which students read and wrote critiques of each other's compositions, John could be counted on to give intelligent, useful comments. But most impressive to me was John's ability as a writer, which was evident whether he was writing quiz answers, timed in-class writing assignments, or fully worked out final draft essays. I remember recommending at least one of John's essays for submission to the student literary magazine (selections to be revealed with publication in May 2005). In conclusion, I believe John is a highly intelligent and personable young man who will be an excellent addition to any staff.

Sincerely,

J. Andrea Boone

To Whom It May Concern:

It is my pleasure to write in support of John Richau as he seeks an internship with your organization. Mr. Richau was a student in two of my classes: Argumentation and Persuasion. He was one of my most motivated and dedicated students in both classes.

My classes require students to research, outline, write, and speak on current societal and political issues. Mr. Richau consistently chose contemporary and challenging topics for each of his assignments. He received the highest marks on his class work, but he also excelled beyond the scope of the class. One of his opinion pieces for my Argumentation class was published in the Fresno Bee. He was chosen by his classmates to be their prosecution attorney during mock trials. And he participated in an Oxford-style political debate previous to the recent presidential election.

These classes demanded a high level of dedication and cooperation from every student, and Mr. Richau demonstrated these characteristics and abilities. As a returning student, he is a highly committed student and a conscientious member of the community. He not only triumphed over the challenges of these courses, but he was motivated to "go the extra mile" in every situation. Specifically, he delivered superb presentations and completed other assignments with flawless attention to detail.

I am confident that Mr. John Richau will perform to the highest level in his pursuit for academic excellence and community service. Additionally, he has the personal characteristics to be understanding and supportive for the people around him as he became a positive and respected role-model for his fellow classmates. I give him my highest recommendation and wish him success in his future endeavors. Please contact me if you have any questions.

Sincerely,

To Whom It May Concern:

I am writing this letter on behalf of Mr. John Richau, whom we have had the pleasure of hosting as an intern in U.S. Senator Barbara Boxer's Fresno District Office for the past two months.

As an intern, John's responsibilities included sorting through newsclips, sorting mail, filing, answering phones and constituent phone calls, and research. These are all duties essential to our office, and John was often called upon to complete them, making himself a team player our staff could depend on.

As an intern, John has proven himself to be highly enthusiastic about his work, and always willing to learn. His qualities as an energetic worker make him an asset to any office. Our office has been glad to have gotten to know John as a highly motivated individual. I am sure that John will accomplish all his goals, and I sincerely wish him success on his future endeavors.

If you have any further questions, please feel free to contact our office at 559-497-5109.

Sincerely,

Ana Jovel Melendez
